

Types of Cabinet Door Styles

CABINET STYLE	DESCRIPTION	BEST FOR
 Slab	Sleek, flat, and unadorned door fronts	Modern, contemporary, or Mid-Century Modern kitchens
 Shaker	Simple, clean lines, recessed panel doors, and frame made of square, straight-edged components	Modern, contemporary, transitional, or traditional kitchens
 Slim Shaker	Variation of traditional shaker style cabinetry with narrower profiles	Small, modern, and minimalist kitchens
 Square Raised	Elevated square-shaped central panel within the cabinet door frame	Traditional, transitional, and craftsman kitchens
 Arch Raised	Arched central panel that is elevated or raised within the cabinet door frame	Traditional, farmhouse, or cottage-style kitchens
 Cathedral Raised	Raised central panel with an arch that mimics the shape of a cathedral window	Traditional, craftsman, or Tuscan kitchens
 Double Arched	Raised central panels with arches on the top and bottom	Traditional, timeless kitchens
 Beadboard	Door or drawer fronts with vertically grooved panels emulating traditional beadboard	French country, farmhouse, cottage-style, or rustic kitchens
 Mullion	Decorative or functional vertical dividers (mullions) within the cabinet doors, often with glass panels	Modern, French country, or traditional kitchens
 Open Frame	Doors with an open central panel, typically featuring glass	Minimalist, modern, and farmhouse kitchens
 Louvered	Doors or panels featuring angled slats or louvers	Farmhouse, rustic, and French country kitchens